INNOVATING THE DELIVERY OF INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

IT Solutions for enterprise and SMB verticals

New Changes and Service Enhancements

It is my pleasure to announce several exciting changes taking place within Sandbox Technologies. In an industry that's continually in flux, staying ahead of the curve is necessary to ensure our clients receive the professional care and guidance they deserve. In the coming months, you'll be receiving numerous communications from us explaining these changes. In the meantime, the following is a glimpse into what you can expect to be hearing more about.

New Management Model - A successful IT strategy requires aggressive management and regular communication. As of May, our Chief Operating Officer, Oliver Fox, has assumed responsibility for overseeing all technical staff and service delivery. To improve our level of service and facilitate better management oversight, an entirely new service delivery structure will soon be implemented for all contract-based clients.

Information Security Advisory - In response to the evolving information security threat landscape, clients will begin receiving exclusive information security guidance and communications.

Cloud Strategy Consulting - The rapid evolution of cloud services has forever changed the way IT services are delivered. The key to a successful cloud strategy is staying abreast of the latest cloud evolutions and striking the right balance between premature adoption and falling behind the curve.

Additional Upcoming Developments

You may have noticed we recently adopted a new logo and branding, and that we've expanded our operations into new areas of specialization to better serve our clients. In the near future, stay tuned for the debut of our new website showcasing these and other exciting developments taking place as our organization continues to grow.

On behalf of our entire staff, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for being a valued client of Sandbox Technologies, and to let you know how pleased we are to have you with us at this exciting time for our company!

Warmest Regards,

Deborah Henry, Founder & CEO
